CONSOLATION prize winners from the first draw of the Jet Set with Setia campaign were recently treated to a day of leisure and high tea with leading property developer SP Setia Bhd.

The day began at Setia Eco Park, Shah Alam where they were given a tour around the award-winning township, known for its sprawling 22.6ha forest park, surrounded by waterways, creeks, lush scenic landscapes, and a three-tier security system.

Setia Eco Park not only provides luxury living within nature's warm embrace, but it is also a sanctuary for butterflies and birds, thanks to a collaboration with the Penang Butterfly Farm and Kuala Lumpur Bird Park.

After a hearty lunch at the clubhouse, guests were whisked off to Admiral Marina, Port Dickson to board a yacht for a short cruise, which was the highlight of the day.

There was much excitement as guests arrived at the marina as many were boarding a yacht for the first time.

After a briefing by the crew on the do's and don'ts, it was time to head out and have a good time.

The Straits of Malacca, with its gentle waves and cool breeze, made for a relaxing and memorable getaway, not to mention the stunning seascape.

After an hour out at sea, high tea was served on deck and guests were taken back in time to the 1980s and 1990s by a live band.

It was a picturesque moment as guests enjoyed themselves against the backdrop of the setting sun, which formed orange streaks across the sky.

A surprise birthday celebration was also held for Kong Lai Chin, the best friend of one of the winners, Phoebe Yap.

"We had such a nice day out on the yacht and the team was so sweet. They agreed to help me plan a wonderful surprise birthday celebration on board the yacht for my best friend whom I've known since 15. I'm glad the surprise went really well," said Yap.

She thanked the Setia team for a truly memorable day.

Some even went for a dip in the inviting sea.

Another winner, Janice Low, who was there with husband Billy Law, said it was a great experience for the both of them as it was their first time on a yacht.

"It was a very relaxing day for us. We enjoyed the food, music and beautiful scenery. Thank you SP Setia for the great experience," added Low.

As dusk set in, it was the cue for everyone to head back.

Guests were then brought to Embok Village in Port Dickson, a restaurant known for its steamboat and seafood.

A wide selection of fresh seafood dishes were prepared for the guests while they laughed and mingled with one another.

Dinner was served under the moonlit sky, with swaying coconut trees and whispers of the waves providing a wonderful end to an unforgettable day.

"After all the planning we put into the Jet Set with Setia campaign, the smiles and excitement of our buyers proved that we had managed to live up to their expectations of Setia, delivering only the best.

"We will continue to improve on these experiences by providing more surprises and entertainment," said SP Setia Bhd executive vice-president Datuk Koe Peng Kang.

The cruise was one of the consolation prizes of the Jet Set with Setia campaign, which began on Aug 31 and will go on until Dec 1.

It is open to all SP Setia buyers who purchase properties worth RM200,001 and above, from Jan 1 to the end of the year.

The contest is part of the Setia 40th anniversary campaign to reward its customers and it features three draw events: one on Sept 19, Oct 31 and Dec 12.

SP Setia will be increasing the chances for purchasers to experience such memorable trips with loved ones for the second and third draws; from just one winner per trip to London, Melbourne, Qinzhou, Ho Chi Minh, Singapore and Langkawi, to two winners each while 10 other winners will get to enjoy the luxury high tea yacht experience.

All winners are entitled to bring a partner along for the trip via business class flights to their respective destination.
